

3 Paid Heritage Projects work

Community Research Coordinator Role Seas of the North Isles

Wessex Archaeology are currently looking for a Community Research Coordinator on our islands as part of the Seas of the North Isles project for the North Isles Landscape Partnership Scheme. The successful candidate will work on the Maritime Cultural Landscapes topic and Shipwrecks topic. The main function of this role will be to act as a local coordinator, drumming up support in the community and arranging some research sessions and then combining all the research and writing an A4 summary. This post will run from now until January 2023 and can be fitted to your schedule .

The pay for this work is £1500

Artwork for Pier Waiting Rooms in the North Isles

An experienced artist/s is sought to create a piece/s of public art for the pier waiting rooms in Rousay, Egilsay and Wyre around the theme of Maritime Art and Heritage in the North Isles. These may be standalone pieces on each island or one artist creating linked pieces on all three.

The project will be developed and delivered within the project budget.

£2250 Including the artists time for design and creation of artwork and community workshops/engagement and £1,000 for materials, fabrication and installation.

For more info for the above two jobs contact Natalia Bain n.bain@wessexarch.co.uk

Research, Write & Collate images for the Interpretation Boards in Rousay & Wyre

For Rousay—1 x Large Map Board for the Rousay Pier area and 1 orientation board for Faraclett Viewpoint.

For Wyre—1 x Large Map Board for the Wyre Pier area and 1 orientation board for Cubbie Roo's Castle.

For more information on all jobs please contact Anne Bignall

anne.bignall@orkney.gov.uk